Alumni Spotlight

Alex J. Becker is a 2020 graduate of UWL's Political Science and Public Administration program. He was inspired by the political climate of 2017 to be a POLPUB student and to pursue a career in law. Now a graduate from the University of Wisconsin Law School, and an attorney at Murphy Desmond S.C., Becker credits UWL with fostering his sense of civic virtue. He encourages students to ask tough questions, engage with diverse perspectives, and approach every issue with humility and a willingness to learn.

Tami Mitchell 92'

Tami Mitchell, a 1992 graduate of UWL's Political Science and Business Administration programs, has built an impressive legal career with a JD from Marquette University Law School and an LLM from the Army JAG School. She credits UWL with sharpening her critical thinking, attention to detail, and public speaking skills –key assets in litigating complex 4th Amendment cases and an asset to any legal career. Mitchell encourages students to question media narratives, evaluate legal accuracy over popular opinion, and embrace concise communication, principles she honed during her time at UWL.
